(By Associated Press.)
SAN FRANCISCO, July 9.—After six hours' deliberation without a pause for luncheon, the coroner's jury investigating the death of Miss Caroline Brash, bookkeeper for Gray brothers, who was killed in their office in the Wells Fargo building last week, returned a verdict charging James E. Cunningham, the self-confessed murderer, with the crime, and recommending that laws be framed and adopted without delay which will do away with the "time check" system of paying laborers, used by Gray brothers. The inquest was attended by men of all professions, legislators, lawyers, doctors and ministers, seeking a chance to denounce the "pay check" system. The verdict also recommended that the bar association draw up a bill which will put a stop to the "pay check" system and calls upon the legislature to pass a bill and boards of supervisors in every municipality to work for its passage.

He is just now the proudest man in the city, although as the days roll by he may be like Wang, who remarks in solemn tones that, "I have to work all night, I have to work all day, it keeps me busy all the time to keep that burro in hay."
Bill has taken the number of the shop down and spent the greater part of yesterday casting loving glances in the direction of his new owner.
